Antique Swedish Pine Cabinet Cupboard from early 1800's

The gentle beauty of this Swedish cupboard is found in the deep patina of the aged pine, dated to the early 1800's (notice the original hinges and wood pegs used for nails). Carving along the curved bonnet and panel doors adds depth and character, all resting upon cabriole feet. Any minor cracks, stains, scratches or separations in panels are all commensurate with age and do not impact the function while simply adding to the aged beauty which reflects many generations of use. The interior shelving includes a traditional spoon rack (the uppermost shelf). This cupboard has been restored and waxed so it is in solid /stable condition and ready to use. Please examine the close up photos to fully appreciate the amazing depth of rich patina in this inviting Swedish cabinet cupboard.
