Rustic Plank Console Table with Peg Legs, Hungary circa 1900's

This rustic plank top console table with splay peg legs originally served as a work table.

The over 3" thick top invites one to run fingers along it, while stains, cracks, gouges and the age related separation of the two heavy planks all add character and intrigue to the table itself. The squared peg legs are a slightly lighter color and contrast with the darker brown top.

Iron bolts were added at some point to reinforce the top, adding a slight industrial feel while the slight, natural irregularities to the top shape simply add to its organic appeal.

Restored, this table is strong, stable and ready for use.

Any scratches, cracks, dings, or age related separation are reflective of age and do not detract from the appeal nor function of this console.

Please refer to professional photos for clear understanding of color, condition and details; photo lighting, individual monitor display and home lighting may all impact how item is viewed.
