Pair of Original Painted Antique Hungarian Barn Doors

Old doors are being used in new ways throughout homes today, and this pair of old original rust painted barn doors will add a unique architectual element to any interior space. This pair of vintage doors can be used individually or attached together to create a larger "barn door" look, especially if one is looking for a wide barn door to use in a sliding door concept. The pattern in the panels with decorative planks set horizontal on top and at a diagonal angle on the bottom create an interesting visual accent. We are selling this pair of vintage doors in as is, used condition as we found them in Europe. The original rust paint on the front and gray paint on the back can be kept on, sanded and distressed, or stripped off by the buyer based on the look they want to achieve. Please contact us if we may assist further with these doors or any other items.
