Authentic Vintage Chesterfield Sofa from England

The unique appeal of vintage leather over something new is difficult to describe, but it is the worn patina that comes slowly over time that creates the depth of character in an aged leather sofa such as this one. Added to the classic style of a Chesterfield sofa, and the combination is inviting. This single seat sofa has an authentic vintage look due to generations of use. There is age related wear to the brown leather which is more extensive to the seat cushion and arms (note tears along creases), crackles, old stains, also separation along side seam and loose webbing underneath. The leather will benefit from conditioning but the sofa is ready to use as is now as it sits comfortably and has loads of character. Seat height is 18".
