Vintage Long Refectory Dining Table Painted Gray from France

This long oak refectory table has been given a newer, professionally applied painted finish suited well for today's modern home. Please examine the close up photos to appreciate the layers and texture of white and gray paint, blended together for a soft, dove gray appearance which imbues new life into this vintage dining table. At just under 10' long, the shape allows it to be used as a large console or dining table. The floor to skirt measurement is 25.5" high and the narrow table top ends extend 8.25" beyond the table base, allowing a chair to be placed at both ends if desired. This table has been restored, so it's strong, stable and ready for daily use. Any nicks, scratches, signs of wear are age related and do not impact the function nor beauty of this impressive table.
