Antique Red Painted Coffee Table With Three Drawers from China

While entirely smooth, there is apparent texture to this coffee table due to the layers of red paint and natural wood that are revealed where the paint was worn off through generations of use. The polished lacquer protects and creates the finish which allows these layers to add character to the table. Three easy to use drawers provide great storage. Unique to this coffee table is the lattice wood that forms a type of lower shelf while creating visual intrigue as well. While there are typical age-related scratches, scuffs and signs of distress/wear, this coffee table is strong/stable and ready to be used and enjoyed. Please take a moment to enlarge the photos and examine the details up close.
